Motion for Court Approval and Adoption of the Special Master's Recommendations Concerning
Distribution of Settlement Funds

NOW INTO COURT COMES Daniel J. Balhoff, Special Master, and moves for the Court's approval and adoption of the Special Master's Recommendations Concerning Distribution of Settlement Funds (filed on September 5, 2013) for the following reasons:

The Special Master has coordinated with the CADA to implement the methodology that the Court adopted on March 20, 2013. The Special Master also coordinated with the CADA to implement a method of informing the claimants of allocations and procedure for claimants to object and appeal their allocations that the Court also adopted.

2.

The Special Master and the CADA reviewed the objections and made determinations on all objections. At this time the Special Master and the CADA have determined which claimants should share in the settlement fund. In order to distribute these allocations, the Special Master asks the Court to adopt recommendations as outlined in the Special Master's Report.

The Special Master's Recommendations have been submitted and reviewed by liaison counsel for plaintiffs and defendants, and there are no objections.

WHEREFORE, the Special Master prays that the Motion for Court Approval and Adoption of the Special Master's Recommendations Concerning Distribution of Settlement Funds be granted.

Respectfully Submitted:

Special Master's Recommendations
Concerning Distribution of Settlement Funds

On August 29, 2005, Hurricane Katrina made landfall over the coast of southeast Louisiana. The storm devastated several states along the Gulf Coast, driving tens of thousands of residents from their homes. Many were displaced for months and, sometimes, years.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) provided temporary shelter for the displaced residents. It procured manufactured housing units and trailers from dozens of manufacturers, and hired contractors to aid in the project.

As time passed, residents began to complain of problems that they associated with formaldehyde fumes emanating from the manufactured housing units and trailers. Eventually, many of the residents sued FEMA, the manufacturers, and the contractors. The suits were consolidated in the instant Multidistrict Litigation.

Almost all of the claims have now been dismissed or settled. The settlements came in three waves:

First. Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc., a manufacturer, declared bankruptcy and its insurers settled with claimants. The Court appointed the undersigned as Special Master to allocate the settlement. The allocations are final and the settlement funds have been disbursed.

Second. The manufacturers of the manufactured housing units settled. The Court again appointed the undersigned as Special Master to allocate the settlement (also known as the Non-Lit settlement). The allocations are final and the settlement funds have been disbursed.

Third. Most of the remaining manufacturers and contractors settled. The Court approved a class settlement with respect to most of the settling manufacturers and another class settlement with respect to the settling contractors on September 27, 2012. The other settling manufacturers elected to settle with claimants on a mass basis (i.e., with a specified list of known claimants) rather than a class basis. The Court again appointed the undersigned as Special Master to allocate all pending settlements.

On March 4, 2013, the Special Master proposed a methodology for allocating the third wave of settlement proceeds among the claimants. Rec. Doc. 26032-2. On March 20, the Court adopted the Special Master's methodology. Rec. Doc. 26040. No one has appealed the Court's order.¹ The Special Master subsequently proposed an objection procedure which the Court also adopted. Rec. Docs. 26042-1 and 26045. Again, no one appealed the Court's order.

The Special Master and the CADA have spent the last several months implementing the methodology that the Court adopted. The CADA initially received more than 200,000 potential claims against the settlement funds. On April 30, 2013, after eliminating suspected duplicates, the CADA sent 47 preliminary claimant lists to the attorneys who represented the claimants, giving the attorneys a deadline of May 15, 2013 to object to or modify their respective lists.

On approximately June 14, 2013, the CADA began notifying attorneys and claimants² of their ¹Since the Court approved the Special Master's methodology for the third wave, defendants SRS, Inc. and Agbayani Construction Corp. have settled. The Special Master has directed the CADA to employ the same methodology (i.e., as outlined in Rec. Doc. 26032-2) for claims against these two defendants as for those against all other settling defendants. The Special Master recommends that the Court approve this extension of its methodology, as reflected in Items 1 and 8 of the Recommendations below.

²When mailing letters to the claimants, the CADA used the addresses that the claimants listed on their claim forms or (if available) any more recent addresses that the claimants or their attorneys respective preliminary allocations (i.e., the point allocations that the CADA had assigned to the claimants based upon the methodology that had been adopted by the Court, with each point equaling approximately a dollar). The letters that the CADA mailed to the claimants informed them of the objection deadline (July 12) and the procedure for objecting.

The CADA received 3,214 objections. The Special Master, with the help of the CADA, reviewed the objections and determined that there was no need for evidentiary hearings, since the merits of the various objections were apparent on their face. After his review, the Special Master directed the CADA to adjust 2,184 of the point allocations in response to the objections, and to deny the remaining 1,034 objections (leaving them at the original allocation). The objection process is discussed in further detail in Exhibit 1, and the disposition of (i.e., the Special Master's recommendation as to) all 3,214 objections is detailed in Exhibit 2.

Employing the above-described process, the Special Master and the CADA have determined which claimants should share in the settlement fund. The Special Master has directed the CADA to convert the points which had previously been allocated to the claimants into dollars, with the awards reflected in Exhibit 3 (under seal). Of course, the shares are not equal, but instead vary according to the methodology that the Court has adopted. The Special Master has directed the CADA to convert the points which had previously been allocated to the claimants into dollars, with the awards reflected in Exhibit 3 (under seal). Exhibit 3 includes the enhancement awards that this had provided. If the mail was returned as undeliverable, the CADA took reasonable steps (including computer searches, etc.) to determine updated addresses for the claimants. Based on both his own and the CADA's past experience in class/mass litigation, the Special Master is satisfied that the CADA made all reasonable efforts to contact the claimants. The Special Master would further note that, as in all litigation, it is the claimant's ultimate responsibility to inform the Court and its officers of any change of address.

Court has previously approved, as well as extraordinary awards for certain cancer claims (as anticipated in Rec. Doc. 26032-2). Whereas Exhibit 3 lists those claimants who will receive awards, Exhibit 4 (also filed under seal) lists those claimants who have been denied recovery in accordance with the Court's previously adopted methodology.

Finally, the Special Master has directed the CADA to set aside the balance of the settlement fund as an appropriate reserve for future administrative costs and fees as well as potential unforeseen claims. In the event there is a reserve at remaining at the end of the process, the Special Master will make further recommendations, including a possible *cy prè*s award.

Recommendations

The Special Master recommends that the Court enter a Judgment³ stating that:

1. The Court adopts the Special Master's recommendations concerning the disposition of objections as reflected in Exhibits 1 and 2, together with the allocations reflected in Exhibits 3 and 4.
2. The Court directs the CADA to commence the distribution of the settlement allocation checks within 30 days of the date that this Judgment is signed and filed in the record.
3. The Court directs the CADA to use its discretion to appropriately follow up on settlement allocations that go unclaimed more than 180 days from the date of distribution; the Court further directs the CADA to employ at least one of the following methods of due diligence: (1) request updated contact information from the claimant's representing attorney, or (2) perform additional address research using paid subscription services to locate the claimant.

³As of the filing of this Report, the Special Master has not yet been able to provide the defendants with the all of the waivers required by the Settlement Agreement. The Special Master suggests (and liaison counsel agree) that the Court should not adopt the Special Master's Report and Recommendations until the Special Master informs the Court that defendants (through Settlement Liaison Counsel Ryan Johnson) agree that they have received all necessary waivers. If the circumstances warrant, the Special Master may recommend an appropriate alternative, but (in that eventuality) the parties have reserved their right to object.

4. The Court grants the Special Master and the CADA the authority to determine the appropriate method for distribution of settlement funds to minor, deceased, or incompetent claimants; and the Court authorizes the Special Master and the CADA to require notarized power of attorney, notarized affidavits of entitlement, court orders, or other court process as well as other appropriate identification as deemed appropriate or necessary. The Court further authorizes the Special Master and the CADA to (a) rely upon attorney-provided representative or successor information when determining the appropriate party to which settlement funds should be distributed and (b) shall use its discretion to decipher information obtained directly from claimant representatives or successors to appropriately deliver settlement funds.
5. After one (1) year from the initial mailing of settlement checks, any amounts that remain unclaimed, returned, or undeposited by Class Members, or which could not for any reason be distributed (along with any remaining amount withheld by the Special Master and CADA for fees and expenses which is no longer needed to pay such fees and expenses) shall constitute the Unclaimed Fund. The CADA shall submit a written report to the District Court, Plaintiffs' Steering Committee, and Defense Liaison Counsel on the status and amount of the Unclaimed Fund.

The Unclaimed Fund shall be subject to appropriate disposition by the Court, including in part or in whole any of the following disbursement methods:

- a. The Plaintiffs' Steering Committee may seek a court order authorizing payment to the Special Master or the CADA of any additional expenses and fees as required to administer the Settlement Agreement.
 - b. The Plaintiffs' Steering Committee may seek a court order authorizing payment to them of additional fees and expenses incurred which were necessary to enforce or effectuate the Settlement Agreement.
 - c. The Court may approve a cy près payment.
 - d. The balance of the fund shall be delivered, along with a list of putative claimants and the amount due each, to the escheat or unclaimed funds division (or other appropriate state entity) for the state of last known address for the class member. If the CADA has no known address on file, funds shall be delivered to the unclaimed funds division of the Louisiana Secretary of State, or the equivalent governmental agency at the time.
6. The CADA shall have the authority to include release language on the back of the settlement checks and any accompanying enclosures, to the extent approved by the Special Master.

7. For the limited purpose of concluding the compromise, settlement and release of claims embodied in each settlement check, the Court hereby appoints the CADA as the authorized representative of the persons and/or entities being released. The CADA's signature together with the recipient's endorsement on the back of the check or negotiation of the check without an endorsement will constitute a compromise and transaction for purposes of the controlling law, and also will be considered a "release agreement" as that term is used in the Stipulation of Settlement signed by the parties.
8. That, in all other respects, the Court adopts the Special Master's Report and Recommendations in full.

Baton Rouge, Louisiana, this 5th day of September, 2013.

Memorandum

TO: Daniel J. Balhoff, Special Master
FROM: Postlethwaite & Netterville, CADA
DATE: September 4, 2013
RE: FEMA Consolidated – Final Objections Report

On June 12, 2013, the Court Appointed Disbursing Agent (CADA) disbursed preliminary allocation award letters to claimants with valid mailing information. The award letters contained an estimated allocation amount as well as instructions regarding the appropriate method for submitting an objection to the provided allocation amount and/or the claimant's claim status. Additionally, the CADA supplied each plaintiff attorney firm with an allocation award list of their clients and the clients' corresponding estimated allocation awards. The allocation award lists were provided for attorneys to address deficient contact information, file objections on the client's behalf, and serve as a reference to field client questions and manage client submitted objections. The deadline for a claimant to submit a timely objection was July 12, 2013.

- CADA's objection processing procedures (Sec. I);
- Explanations of the rationale used to evaluate and categorize submitted objections (Sec. II);
- The evaluation methods implemented to categorize objections (Sec. III); and
- The Special Master's specific rulings on the different categories of objections (Sec. IV)

I. Objections Processing Overview

The objections process resulted in the receipt of three thousand two hundred fourteen (3,214) objections by the CADA. Objections were submitted directly by claimants and by attorneys via the United States Postal Service (USPS), an online portal, and email. Objections were preliminarily evaluated by the CADA and presented to the Special Master for final review. While the Special Master gave consideration to all objections received, submissions must have included one of the following requirements to be considered for approval:

- Evidence that the claim meets the eligibility requirements for an allocation award as set forth in the *Special Master's Recommendations Concerning Methodology for Disbursing Pending Settlements (Methodology)*¹ or
- Substantive information to warrant a change in the claimant's preliminary claim or allocation information.

Objections without the above referenced requirements were reviewed but generally denied.

II. Objections Assessment Criteria

The objections analysis and evaluation process included a variety of assessment criteria. The CADA relied on information submitted by attorneys in several forms, including plaintiff fact sheets (PFS), Pre-Trial Order 88 (PTO 88) claims data records, and case filing information. Reliance on the information submitted by attorneys was a fundamental necessity in order to control administrative expenses and help ensure accuracy of claim information.

Reliance on Integrity of Attorney Submissions

The CADA has relied on plaintiff attorneys to provide various information and key services to assist the CADA in evaluating and processing claims. Plaintiff attorneys submitted information throughout the claims administration process, including information offered in support of an original claim at the claim-filing stage and in support of an objection, if applicable, at the objections stage. Some examples of information and assistance provided by plaintiff attorneys include: complete and accurate personal and claim information from clients, including required case filing information, key claim related data, contact information, supporting documentation, etc.

As representatives of their clients and officers of the Court, attorneys are obligated to be truthful in their representation to a tribunal and to correct false statements previously made.² Reliance on information provided by attorneys on behalf of their clients as truthful and correct, has allowed the CADA to analyze the information submitted at face-value and to resolve the issues presented in an orderly and timely manner, in an overall effort to preserve the funds available for claimant recovery.

PTO 88 Claimant List

Plaintiff's counsel was required "to provide the Court...data files listing the number of plaintiffs with cases filed against each defendant..." via Plaintiff Fact Sheets.³ Subsequently, Pre-Trial Order 88 was issued to consolidate plaintiff case information into an "information database." The database was approved by the Court as an official source of claimant information.⁴

Plaintiff Fact Sheets

Plaintiff fact sheets (PFS) have been used throughout the claims administration process as a source of information about each claim and as a benchmark for assessment of a claim's prescription (time-barred) status. For the purpose of claims processing, receipt of a PFS has been considered sufficient evidence that the claimant pursued their cause of action before the expiration of the prescriptive period. If a claim was determined to be prescribed, claimants submitting objections were required to submit a PFS (or other evidence of being a named plaintiff in this matter) to cure the prescription issue.

² See Rule 3.3(a)(1) of the American Bar Association Model Rules of Professional Conduct (MRPC).

³ Rec. Doc. 20770 (Pre-Trial Order 86)

⁴ Rec. Doc. 22124 (Pre-Trial Order 88)

Case Filing Information

Case filing information includes information identifying the cause of action, style of case, and/or court where the case was filed. Case filing information has been a critical aspect of claims analysis from the perspective of an assessment of prescription. Per approval by the Special Master, case filing information was deemed acceptable to cure prescriptive issues if at least one of the following was provided: cause of action, style of case, or court where filed.

III. Objections Evaluation Methods

Each objection, and corresponding claim, was evaluated using the Court-approved Methodology for Disbursing Pending Settlements (Methodology).⁵ All objections were assessed on their merits, including specific evaluation based on the claim's prescription status. According to the Methodology, "[p]rescribed [time-barred] claims will receive nothing." To cure a claim's prescribed status, the objection must provide evidence proving the claimant was an original named plaintiff in In Re: FEMA Formaldehyde Product Liability Litigation. Examples of acceptable evidence include:

- Plaintiff Fact Sheet (PFS)
- Filing Information with the Court (Cause of action, style of case, court where filed)
- Claim information included on the Pre-Trial Order 88 (PTO 88) claimant list

Objections were also evaluated using other substantive information provided by the claimant or the claimant's attorney. Each objection was evaluated and placed into one of the following categories for Special Master review:

Description	Category
Dissatisfied with allocation amount	A
Seeking compensation for medical expenses	B
Manufacturer or contractor update	C
Prescription documentation required	D
Additional claimant submissions	E
Duplicate claims objection	F
Internal CADA review procedures	G
Attorney representation update	H
Incomplete objections	I
Information updates	J

*For a detailed description of each category, please refer to Appendix A.

⁵ Rec. Doc. 26032-2

IV. Special Master Objections Rulings

Based on the categories outlined in Section III, the Special Master made the following recommendations regarding objections:

- Two thousand one hundred and eighty (2,180) objections were approved by the Special Master. The table below provides a breakdown of the Special Master's decision:

Reason	Count
Claim requires an update to manufacturer or contractor information	782
Claimant is a minor in the state of Mississippi and meets the requirements for eligibility	37
Claimant/attorney provided documentation to cure prescriptive issue	337
Attorney identified claimant as an additional claimant and provided CADA with sufficient information to assess the claim	75
Claim has been identified as a duplicate and will be removed from the settlement pool	600
Claim erroneously marked as duplicate during the certification process - claim will be added to the settlement pool	48
Objection based on internal CADA review procedures to ensure consistent application of the Methodology	248
Objection to indicate that the claim requires attorney representation update	26
Objection to notify the CADA that claimant's information required an update	27

- One thousand thirty-four (1,034) objections were denied by the Special Master. The table below provides a breakdown of the Special Master's decisions:

Reason	Count
Claimant is dissatisfied with allocation amount and is requesting additional compensation without substantive evidence	159
Claimant is seeking compensation that is equivalent to additional individuals that allegedly lived in the same trailer	21
Claimant is seeking compensation for medical damages and expenses which is not consistent with the Methodology	154
Claimant/attorney objected to claim's prescription status but did not provide sufficient evidence to cure issue	462
Attorney identified claimant as an additional class member but did not provide enough information for CADA to adequately assess claim	46
Objection did not provide sufficient information for CADA to re-assess claim	162
Objection did not provide sufficient information for CADA to identify claimant or process objection	30

Appendix A

- i. Dissatisfied with allocation amount (Category A) – Objections containing a description of damages (non-medical) that the claimant argues should be considered when calculating the allocation award. In some cases, the claimant may be seeking compensation that is equivalent to additional individuals that allegedly lived in the same or a similar emergency housing unit (trailer). Examples of “Category A Objections” include: “inconvenience”, “home repairs”, “lost property” and “differing allocation amounts”.
- ii. Seeking compensation for medical expenses (Category B) – Objections containing a description of medical damages that the claimant argues should be considered when calculating the allocation award. Per the Court-approved Methodology, “[t]he Special Master will not consider medical damages and physical injury in making recommendations...”⁶ Common examples of “Category B Objections” include: “Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD)”, “respiratory issues”, “headaches”, etc.
- iii. Manufacturer or Contractor Update (Category C) – Objections containing updated manufacturer or contractor information. Manufacturer updates were provided through attorney submissions and related research performed by the CADA to help ensure a consistent application of the allocation methodology. Updates to claims with unique scenarios were performed under the explicit instruction of the Special Master.
- iv. Prescription documentation required (Category D) – Objections related to a claim’s prescribed status. Claims initially evaluated as prescribed were amended as valid if either the claimant or their representing attorney provided required documentation (PFS, case filing information, etc.) to prove that the claim is eligible for an allocation award.
- v. Additional Claimant Submission (Category E) – Reflects the list of objections submitted by plaintiff attorneys on behalf of claimants that had not been previously identified as settlement class members. At the instruction of the Special Master, these claims will be accepted. However, claims that remain materially deficient will receive a $0.00 allocation.
- vi. Duplicate Claims Objections (Category F) – Represents attorney-submitted objections for claims which either (a) required updates as a duplicate of other claims or (b) were erroneously marked as a duplicate of another claim during the preliminary claimant list certification process.
- vii. Internal CADA Review Procedures (Category G) – Reflects objections stemming from research and analysis performed by the CADA to ensure consistent application of the Methodology.

⁶ Rec. Doc. 26032-2

- viii. Attorney Representation (Category H) – Includes objections submitted by attorneys to indicate necessary updates to claimant representation.
- ix. Incomplete Objections (Category I) – Deficient objections that did not meet minimum submission requirements or general claims updates.
- x. Information Updates (Category J) – These objections were submitted for the purpose of providing updated information related to a claim and/or claimant (updated contact information, representative information, etc).
